

In the Court of Appeals of the State of Alaska

Joshua S Twogood,
Appellant,

v.

State of Alaska,
Appellee.

Court of Appeals No. A-12846

Order

Date of Order: January 10, 2020

Trial Court Case No. 4FA-15-01961CI

The Appellant, Joshua Sion Twogood, filed an application for post-conviction relief arguing that it was unreasonable for the parole board to require him to complete substance abuse treatment in custody, rather than out of custody. He also argued that the parole board erred in requiring him to agree to a no-alcohol provision as a term of supervision. The superior court rejected his application and he filed this appeal.

It appears, however, that Mr. Twogood may no longer be in custody and instead be on some form of supervised release. If this is true, Mr. Twogood's challenge to the treatment requirement may be moot. Furthermore, it is unclear whether Mr. Twogood is currently subject to the no-alcohol provision. If he is not, his challenge to that provision may also be moot.

Accordingly, Mr. Twogood is directed to file an affidavit informing the court whether he is no longer in custody and whether he is currently subject to the no-alcohol provision. Mr. Twogood may also file an accompanying memorandum explaining why his appeal is not moot. The memorandum shall not exceed ten pages and need not conform with Appellate Rule 212. Mr. Twogood's memorandum shall be filed on or before January 29, 2020.

The State may file a memorandum in response. If the State files a memorandum in response, the memorandum shall not exceed ten pages and need not conform with Appellate Rule 212. The State shall file its memorandum, or a notice that it will not file a response, twenty days after Mr. Twogood files his memorandum.
